

“Suspicion” Lyrics

Music by Margaret Dorn (BMI) and Lyrics by Deborah Mullis (BMI)

Published by Jean Louis Pedat Music (ASCAP)

I am the daughter of a farmer

I’m a lover of this life

I am a sister of kindness

A bearer of the light

So honey listen to me

You’ve gotta tell the truth

‘Cause suspicion

It’s a poisonous fruit

I follow in the footsteps of my daddy dear

I got to keep the pathway to the garden clear

Oh, honey can you hear me?

You gotta be astute

‘Cause suspicion

It’s a poisonous fruit

Oh, oh

Oh, oh

One kiss

One moment of weakness

Oh, oh

One touch

One seed of doubt
It's a dangerous passion
It's a fatal attraction
Don't cross that line
'Cause you can never be mine

Oh, oh
Oh, oh

I ain't no goody two shoes
I've made more mistakes than most
And you're almost more tempting
Than the Holy Ghost
Honey listen to me
Even though you're so cute
Suspicion
Is a poisonous fruit

Oh, oh
Oh, oh